

Steps for Reducing Your Bond

If you are eligible for a bond, you must show:

- ▶ You are not dangerous to people or property
- ▶ You will attend all your future court hearings

Step 1

Call your family, friends, employers, religious leaders and ask them to write letters of support for you and help you collect evidence

Suggestions for the letters of support:

1. Must be written in English
2. Should begin with “Dear Honorable Immigration Judge”
3. Must state your full name and A number
4. Should include the writer’s address and immigration status
5. If necessary, should explain that the writer can help you with housing and food
6. Should explain why you are a good person and why you can be trusted to come to immigration court in the future

Examples of evidence:

1. Evidence that your family members are U.S. citizens or legal permanent residents
2. Marriage certificates (if your husband/wife has immigration status in the U.S.)
3. Proof that you pay your taxes
4. Certificates of completing classes
5. Any other proof that shows you have connections to the U.S.

Your family or friends should mail the letters and evidence directly to you at:

Your name and “A” Number
GEO Group/ICE Processing Center
11901 E. 30th Avenue
Aurora, CO 80010-1525

Step 2

Ask for a bond hearing

You may request a bond hearing by:

- ▶ Sending a “kite” to the immigration court saying you would like a bond hearing or
- ▶ Asking the judge at the your first hearing for a bond hearing

Step 3

Present your evidence

The day of your bond hearing have THREE COPIES of your letter(s) of support and any other evidence. People may also come to immigration court to testify for you, or they may testify by telephone. Make sure that everyone has U.S. immigration status.

Leaving the detention facility on bond is not a defense against deportation and is not permission to work in the United States. If you pay your bond, the judge will transfer

Rocky Mountain Immigrant Advocacy Network (RMIAN): (303) 866-9308

RMIAN is a non-profit organization and is not part of the government. This pamphlet provides general information and should not be considered specific legal advice for your case.

Last Updated: 10/14/2009

your case to the immigration court in downtown Denver. If you live in another state, you may ask the judge to transfer your case to the immigration court in that state.

Rocky Mountain Immigrant Advocacy Network (RMIAN): (303) 866-9308

RMIAN is a non-profit organization and is not part of the government. This pamphlet provides general information and should not be considered specific legal advice for your case.

Last Updated: 10/14/2009